Dear Charles:

Subject: [REDACTED] Reassignment

This will acknowledge your letter of 19 January 1959, subject as above.

In view of the large number of editors in Headquarters who need overseas experience, and the exceptionally long period which you have already served overseas, I am unable to grant in entirety your request for extension. However, it would serve the best interests of the service for you to extend until [REDACTED] returns from home leave. By our computations this would be about 10 September 1959. You may therefore plan to depart from [REDACTED] about 15 September 1959, give or take a few days.

I have no objection to your taking annual leave in [REDACTED] provided your time in transit to Headquarters does not exceed that normally granted during permanent change of station. However, if you intend to take home leave before reporting for duty you must be on leave 30 calendar days in the States; this must be included in authorized travel and leave time between stations.

It is likely that your assignment in Headquarters will be in [REDACTED]

Current plans call for your replacement, [REDACTED] to arrive in [REDACTED] about 20 July. This would ensure that the [REDACTED] has two editors on duty during [REDACTED] home leave.
